A Return to Rema!

The ninth fantasy Gamebook Adventures title, Sultans of Rema, arrives on iTunes today, joining recent Android releases on Google Play and the Amazon Appstore.

Sultans of Rema is the direct sequel to Tin Man Games' third gamebook app, Slaves of Rema. A return to the southern continent takes players further east to The Emirates of Akbir, ruled by a sick Emir who has remained neutral to Orlandes' political leanings over the years. His successor threatens to send that relationship into turmoil. You must secretly enter a harsh desert world of political power struggles and strange magic to ensure a stable future for both Rema and Orlandes!

Neil Rennison, creative director said: "It's crazy to think that Slaves of Rema is over three years old now. Time flies! Sultans is a fitting sequel to one of our most popular gamebooks. Gaetano Abbondanza has crafted an exciting adventure, Andrew Drage has added his usual flair and attention to detail, and Joshua Wright's illustrations are his best work so far for Tin Man Games. Gamebook Adventures fans and newcomers to the series are going to love it!"

Tin Man Games' gamebook engine transforms iOS and Android based smartphones and tablets into interactive digital books where the reader chooses the path of the story. With animated page-turning, dynamic links, achievements, side quests, an automated inventory for player stats and objects, the reader may also roll physics-based 3D dice to fight their way through the creatures they face in the treacherous desert environment. The app makes good use of the latest smart phone and tablet hardware, using the increased screen space of tablets to read horizontally or vertically, and allows readers to save their progress with bookmarks.

Gamebook Adventures 9: Sultans of Rema is now available to download from the iOS App Store, Google Play and Amazon Appstore. It costs $5.99/£3.99/ 5,49 €.

Gamebook Adventures 3: Slaves of Rema is also available. It costs $0.99/£0.69/ 0,89 € for a limited period.
